OFFICIAL 2012 REGULAR SEASON NEWSLETTER #7

DO YOUR JOB, NOW!!!!

It's the Battle of the Good-Guy teams this Sunday and another episode in the "Quest to Win Again Campaign". Yes, I had to re-name this year's "mission". Naturally, I never considered naming it this to begin with since I had no idea that "winning" was going to be a problem for the most prolific Offense in NFL history!

The SAINTS, who's coaching staff is still scratching their heads after coaching one of the worst games played in team history at The Dome, and that's saying a lot when you've got a father that's been a diehard fan since 1967 and who was the person you watched throwing stuff at the TV every Sunday during the 80's...under Coach Ditka in the 90's and whenever Aaron Brooks threw an INT and walked off the field 'smiling' about it in the 2000's.

At a time like this; I remember my father calling me on Monday Night on September 25, 2006. He told me that things weren't going to change for our team, and that they would always be the same, and that it didn't matter that we had a new quarterback, a new coach and the number 2 pick in the draft earlier that year. He said that we were all in for some more of the same, but for those of you that remember what happened on that date, this is what I said to him: "Dad, we've got Drew Brees and he came here to bring us 'change'. This is our time. It's a new day." At that very moment, Steve Gleason blocked an Atlanta Falcons punt that we returned for a touchdown. You all know the results of that game. With that in mind; I have this to say about our 0-3 start:

-A leader is a dealer in HOPE. We have Drew Brees and in our darkest hour this is our time to shine.-

And in case you didn't know; the week before beating Atlanta in The Dome on that night in 2006, we beat "The Pack" while on the road in Green Bay for the first time in several years.....and we did it with Brees under center.

The Saints haven't had a lot of success in the state of Wisconsin as they're 2-9 all-time on the road against "The Pack". That includes a 1-3 mark in Lambeau Field, with their only win coming in 2006, and if anyone can do it again it's a SAINTS team from the Payton Era.

"I don't know what they're doing on Defense. I don't know what kind of a scheme allows your opponent to put up over 400 yards of offense each game and score 27 or more points and still allows you to win a game!" – Super Bowl Safety, Darren Sharper

DID YOU KNOW THIS? Sunday's game was the first they played under the NFL's modified overtime rule when both teams get a possession unless the team that has the ball first scores a touchdown. The Saints fell to 9-12 all-time in regular-season overtime games with a 3-9 mark in The Dome.

WHAT ABOUT THIS? Brees will tie Hall of Fame Quarterback, Johnny Unitas for consecutive games with a TD pass (47) with a TD pass this weekend against "The Pack".

DID YOU THINK YOU'D EVER SEE THIS, AGAIN?

NFL POWER RANKINGS (after Week 3):

SERIES HISTORY: 23rd regular-season meeting. Packers lead series, 15-7. The teams will square off for the fifth time in the last eight seasons with both teams winning twice. The Packers held off the Saints for a 42-34 win in their last encounter in the 2011 season opener in Lambeau Field. The previous meeting between these quarterbacks came before both captured their Super Bowl MVPs. Brees threw for four touchdowns and 323 yards in a 51-29 home win in 2008 on Monday Night Football, which was the highest scoring game in SAINTS history, until the matchup against the Colts last year.

This week is a DOUBLE-JERSEY GIVEAWAY along with other prizes so don't miss out on all the fun this Sunday!!
